About This EOI

MEAL Bridge Consulting LLC invites qualified professionals to submit an Expression of Interest for inclusion in its pool of potential assignment-based consultants and field personnel. This EOI is designed to identify professionals who may be considered for current and future evaluation, assessment, research, monitoring, third-party monitoring, learning, and related consultancy assignments. Submission of an EOI does not create an employment relationship or guarantee selection for any specific assignment.

Assignments may involve mixed-methods approaches such as desk review, secondary-data analysis, surveys, key informant interviews, focus group discussions, field validation, case studies, participatory methods and triangulation. Specific scope, level of effort, schedule, deliverables and client requirements will be communicated to shortlisted candidates for each assignment.

Geographic Focus

For the current EOI cycle, MEAL Bridge is particularly interested in professionals who are based in, have strong operational familiarity with, or are available to work in Aleppo; Damascus and Rural Damascus; Hama; and the Coastal Area (Tartous, Latakia and Jableh). Applicants from other locations may still be considered where their profile is relevant, particularly for remote or specialist roles. For field-facing roles, geographic availability and local presence will be considered when matching candidates to assignments.

Profile Purpose

Support high-quality qualitative and mixed-methods evaluation, research, field inquiry, evidence synthesis and learning.

Typical Responsibilities

- Contribute to evaluation matrices, qualitative sampling, stakeholder mapping and qualitative tools.

- Conduct and/or lead KIIs, FGDs and other participatory qualitative methods.
- Support field validation and consistent implementation of qualitative protocols.
- Code, synthesize and analyze qualitative evidence, including divergent perspectives, outcomes, lessons and good practices.
- Triangulate qualitative evidence with programme, monitoring and quantitative data and contribute to reports and case studies.

Required Profile

- Relevant university degree or equivalent advanced professional background.
- Demonstrated qualitative evaluation/research experience, including KIIs and FGDs.
- Strong understanding of evaluation design, evidence synthesis and triangulation.
- Experience in humanitarian and/or development contexts.
- Strong Arabic communication/interviewing skills and professional working English.
- Availability for field-based work in one or more of the priority geographic areas indicated in this EOI, as required by individual assignments.

Preferred / Advantageous Experience

- OECD-DAC and mixed-methods experience.
- Experience in Syria or similar contexts.
- Experience with localization, AAP, protection, PSS, livelihoods, education, peacebuilding or community recovery.
- Case-study development and evidence-to-recommendation skills.

How Engagement Works

- MEAL Bridge may review this EOI for an immediate assignment and, where the applicant provides the relevant consent, retain the profile for consideration for other suitable opportunities.
- Shortlisting is assignment-specific. Meeting this EOI profile does not guarantee an interview, proposal inclusion, contract or future engagement.
- For each potential assignment, shortlisted professionals may be contacted to confirm interest, availability, geographic coverage, role, level of effort, fees, travel requirements and assignment-specific conditions.
- Where an opportunity is still under proposal or procurement, any engagement is subject to MEAL Bridge securing the relevant assignment and completing the required contracting process.
- Selected professionals must comply with assignment-specific ethical, safeguarding, confidentiality, data-protection, PSEA, Do No Harm, security and quality requirements.

Application Package

- One PDF file containing both a current CV and a concise cover letter.
- Submit by email using the Apply button on the relevant opportunity card.
- Use a separate application email for each role if applying to more than one opportunity.
